

The LECs ARE dominant in the Telecom market place. There is no way for a new player to enter their markets for competition, because they already monopolize the infestructure (most of which is on public land). If there are laws in place for dealing with 'dominant' companies, why should organizations which so clearly fit the bill be excluded?